

System of Renewing Hand Care Products

Our hands are astonishing organs which we use to hold and manipulate objects.

They are capable of a wide range of actions and make a major contribution to our sense of touch.

They are also a means of expression supplementing speech and are even expressive when they are passive. They are a reflection of our personalities.

Many great poets have paid tribute to hands.

Aragon referred to Elsa's hands as "the wordless tremor of love".

Verlaine said "the meteors of the mind and the tempests of the heart, are all echoed and reflected in them".

Gauthier qualified them as "pure fragments of a human masterpiece".

Hands enable contact with others, provide tactile pleasure and knowledge. They are as vulnerable to external aggressions as the face.

They are an unforgiving reflection of the aging process.

The epidermis of the hands is naturally poorly moisturized as few natural moisturizing factors are present in the hands (4 to 5 times less than in the face). This results in virtually constant dehydration and a fast aging process.

We are constantly using our hands, and they are continually subjected to stress in our daily activities: ultra-violet rays from the sun, wind, cold, hot water, detergents, dust, other materials, smoking, etc. All these factors dehydrate the hands and make their skin more sensitive.

The hydrolipidic film is weakened and aggressed and can no longer act as a protective barrier. The natural aging process is accelerated.

With time, the nails also become more fragile, dull and damaged.

Our hands therefore require particular attention and need specific treatment that respects them and protects them against all these external aggressions.

Laboratoire BIOLOGIQUE RECHERCHE has created a new system of renewing hand care products.
